B Arts & Letters, 214 S. Campbell, continues its September show, Nick Tarr: Art for Art's Sake, plus enjoy a Table Show of New Work by Minneapolis-based artist Jordan Shiveley on Second Saturday. From Nick Tarr: "ART FOR ART'S SAKE - This is what comes to mind as I sit in front of a piece of wood or blank canvas, with brush in hand. As a designer and fabricator by trade, painting became a hobby to fill the gaps between large projects. Painting became more than just a hobby the more I explored. I have been painting now for about five years, and have only cracked the surface of self exploration. Painting to me is about learning and solving problems, just like anything in life. Painting offers me an escape from the immediate and an opportunity to create something from nothing; to share, inspire and be inspired." (417) 830-8186 www.artsandlettersspringfield.com

C BookMarx, 325 E. Walnut St., Ste. 101, presents Featured Artist Bill Shultz. "I am interested in the spontaneous correctness of nature. In Buddhist thought this might be referred to as tathatā, or 'suchness,' an appreciation for what is at any given moment, whether that pertains to the natural world as we immediately think of it (tides, storms, the dying of winter and the rebirth of spring), or the naturalness of our own thoughts and actions (our inner storms, perceived loss and the sensation of renewal). My work explores that spontaneity and physicality by seeking the balance between equanimous decision-making and chance. Our minds have the tendency to compartmentalize reality into this thing, that thing, and the space between. My creative process is an exploration of the nature of those relationships by means of experimentation with form and material. ... My recent work is a series of mixed-media paintings of an abstracted and entropic Earth and a series of writings created on an Olivetti-Underwood 21 typewriter that record my philosophy of life and creativity within a framework of a formal use of text and page as material and space. Above all, in life and my work, I hope to sustain an attitude of hope, an eye toward beauty, a balanced mind and love." - Bill Shultz, 2014 www.facebook.com/bookmarxbooks

G Fresh Gallery, 400 W. Walnut, presents its Five Year Anniversary Celebration in September. Meet the artists during the Second Saturday Artists' Reception 3-5 Sept. 13. Fresh Gallery was established in 2009, the dream of Jeanie Morris, then president of the Springfield Regional Arts Council Board of Directors. Morris and the SRAC director at that time, Sandra Smith, wanted to find a building that could be turned in to a gallery for local artists to exhibit and sell their work, and where the artists would staff the gallery to encourage a sense of ownership and pride. Out of pure good fortune, Nick Sibley generously accepted the challenge of renovating the first floor of the building at the southwest corner of Walnut and Campbell for what would become one of the most sought after galleries in the downtown area. Five years later and much thanks to the Morrises, Smith and SRAC, Fresh Gallery is thriving. Over the years, Fresh Gallery has been home to 68 artists, including six who have been in residence since the first day. The premise of Fresh Gallery is that the art is always fresh. Artists rotate spaces within the building and new art is provided for view each month. As of today, Fresh Gallery is one of Springfield's most visited galleries during First Friday Art Walk and is home to 21 successful regional artists. www.freshgallery.org (417) 862-9300 Open 11 a.m.-6 p.m. T-Sat, 11 a.m.-10 p.m. during Art Walk

L Obelisk Home at the Inspired Commerce Building, 214 W. Phelps, presents T.D. Scott: After A Storm. "After a storm, it's peaceful again ... A 2014 spring tornado struck my small town. Many homes and businesses were destroyed. I was more fortunate; I only lost my art studio. Although years of work and a large (probably too large) collection of books, tools, and equipment was blown away in an instant; my most important treasures were spared- family, friends, pets, and my home. As I witness a community recover, I realize what remains is the instinct to begin again. Like nature perseveres ... This collection of paintings was inspired by the peace and beauty that still exists after a storm." - T.D. Scott (417) 616-6488 www.obeliskhome.com
